

Facilitation Skills for project managers Training Course

Professional Development Training Course Outline

Category	Project Management	Duration	5 Days
Base Fee	$1,500 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

Effective facilitation skills are critical for project managers responsible for guiding teams, stakeholders, and partners toward shared objectives in complex and dynamic environments. Facilitation Skills for Project Managers Training Course focuses on building high-impact facilitation capabilities that enhance collaboration, decision-making, problem-solving, and stakeholder engagement across the project lifecycle. Participants will explore structured facilitation techniques, communication strategies, and group dynamics principles that support productive meetings, workshops, and project discussions while ensuring alignment with project goals, timelines, and governance requirements.

As projects increasingly involve cross-functional teams, virtual collaboration, and diverse stakeholder interests, project managers must act as neutral facilitators who enable participation, manage conflict, and drive consensus. This course equips participants with practical tools to design and lead effective sessions, manage group energy, address resistance, and translate discussions into actionable outcomes. Emphasis is placed on real-world project scenarios, leadership presence, and facilitation methods that improve delivery performance, accountability, and team cohesion.
