

Gender and Wellbeing Training Course

Professional Development Training Course Outline

Category	Gender Studies	Duration	5 Days
Base Fee	$1,500 USD	Delivery Mode	Online / On-site Hybrid

Course Introduction

Gender and wellbeing are increasingly recognized as critical pillars in achieving sustainable development, social inclusion, mental health equity, and human rights-based programming. In today’s rapidly evolving global landscape, disparities rooted in gender inequality, social norms, economic exclusion, and unequal access to healthcare and psychosocial support systems continue to undermine holistic wellbeing. Gender and Wellbeing Training Course integrates gender-responsive approaches, intersectionality frameworks, and wellbeing-centered development strategies to equip participants with the knowledge and tools necessary to address systemic inequalities and promote inclusive wellbeing outcomes.

This course emphasizes transformative gender approaches, mental health resilience, gender-sensitive policy design, and inclusive service delivery systems. Participants will explore cutting-edge concepts such as gender mainstreaming in wellbeing programs, trauma-informed care, emotional intelligence, community resilience building, and gender-responsive budgeting for wellbeing initiatives. Through practical case studies and participatory learning, the training empowers stakeholders to design and implement impact-driven, inclusive, and equitable wellbeing interventions across diverse sectors.
